CHILDREN'S PRAYER GUIDE

18 DAYS OF PRAYER

WWW.110CITIES.COM

We believe that God is calling children everywhere to be “on mission” with Him. They are joining adults in the global prayer and mission movements around the world.

This Children's Hindu Prayer Guide is designed to help children (age 6-12 years) and their families as they participate in the 18 Days of Prayer for the Hindu World. Many children from cities and nations around the world will be joining us as we pray together.

- Each day will follow a theme to do with sharing Jesus with others.
- We will introduce you to a City, tell you a bit about it and what kids in that city like to do.
- We will then start you off with some prayers, as we ask God to open the hearts of the people to the message of Hope that we have in Jesus.
- There are links to more info about the Cities and the People Groups that we are praying for.
- Then there's a bunch of encouraging Real Life Stories to build you up!
- We will close each day with a suggested action point.

“Let the little children come to me, and do not hinder them, for the kingdom of heaven belongs to such as these.” Jesus
– Matthew 19:14

For the earth will be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the LORD as the waters cover the sea.

The origins of Hinduism reach back to 2500 BC. No one knows who officially started the religion, but old texts were found that give us an idea of Hinduism's earliest beliefs and rituals. Over time, Hinduism began to absorb ideas from different religions, but the central ideas of "dharma", "karma" and "samsara" remain.

Dharma: the good things someone must do to lead a righteous life

Karma: a belief that actions have consequences

Samsara: the cycle of birth, death and rebirth

Hindus believe in "reincarnation", the idea that a person will come back to life in a different form after they die. They believe that the form a human takes after death depends on how good or bad they were in their "old" life.

A person who did a lot of bad things would be "reincarnated" as a lowly animal, while someone who had done more good things than bad things might be born again as a human. Hindus believe that only if someone is really good can they break out of this reincarnation cycle.

Many different deities (a fancy word for "gods") are worshipped in Hinduism. It is the third-largest religion in the world and most Hindus live in India.

Who Is a Hindu?

About 15% of the world's population identifies as Hindu. One is born a Hindu, and that is accepted by all families.

There are officially about 22 individual languages, but unofficially, more than 120 languages are spoken with many dialects.

Portions of the Bible are available in only half of these languages.

India's Caste System

Originating over 3,000 years ago, the caste system divides Hindus into five main categories and is still active in modern-day India. Deeply rooted in Hinduism's beliefs in karma and reincarnation, this societal organization can dictate where people live, with whom they associate, and even what water they can drink.

Many believe the caste system originated from Brahma, the Hindu God of creation.

THE CASTES ARE BASED ON BRAHMA'S BODY:

Brahmins: the eyes and mind of Brahma. Brahmins are frequently priests or teachers.

Kshatriyas: the arms of Brahma. Kshatriyas, the "warrior" caste, typically work in the military or government.

Vaishyas: the legs of Brahma. Vaishyas generally hold positions as farmers, traders, or merchants.

Shudras: the feet of Brahma. Shudras often work in manual labor.

Dalits: the "untouchables." Dalits are considered impure from birth and unworthy to even be near the higher castes.

While the caste system is less prevalent in major cities, it still exists. In rural India, castes are very much alive and determine what job a person can have, to whom they can speak, and what human rights they might have.

The Christian Church in India

The presence of Christianity in India dates back to ancient times, tracing its roots to the apostle Thomas, who is believed to have arrived on the Malabar Coast in the first century AD. Over the centuries, the Christian church in India has experienced a complex and diverse history, contributing to the religious tapestry of the country.

After the arrival of Thomas, Christianity gradually spread along the west coast of India. The appearance of European colonizers in the 15th century, including the Portuguese, Dutch, and British, further influenced the growth of Christianity. Missionaries played a crucial role in establishing churches, schools, and hospitals, impacting India's social and educational landscape.

The church in India today represents roughly 2.3% of the population. It encompasses various denominations, including Roman Catholic, Protestant, Orthodox, and independent churches. Kerala, Tamil Nadu, Goa, and the northeastern states have a significant Christian presence.

As is the case in many parts of the world, some may choose to follow Jesus but continue to identify culturally as Hindu.

Significant challenges to the growth of the church include occasional religious intolerance and conversions being criticized as a threat to indigenous culture. The caste system has been difficult to eradicate, and the current government has largely ignored a climate of prejudice and outright oppression in parts of the country.

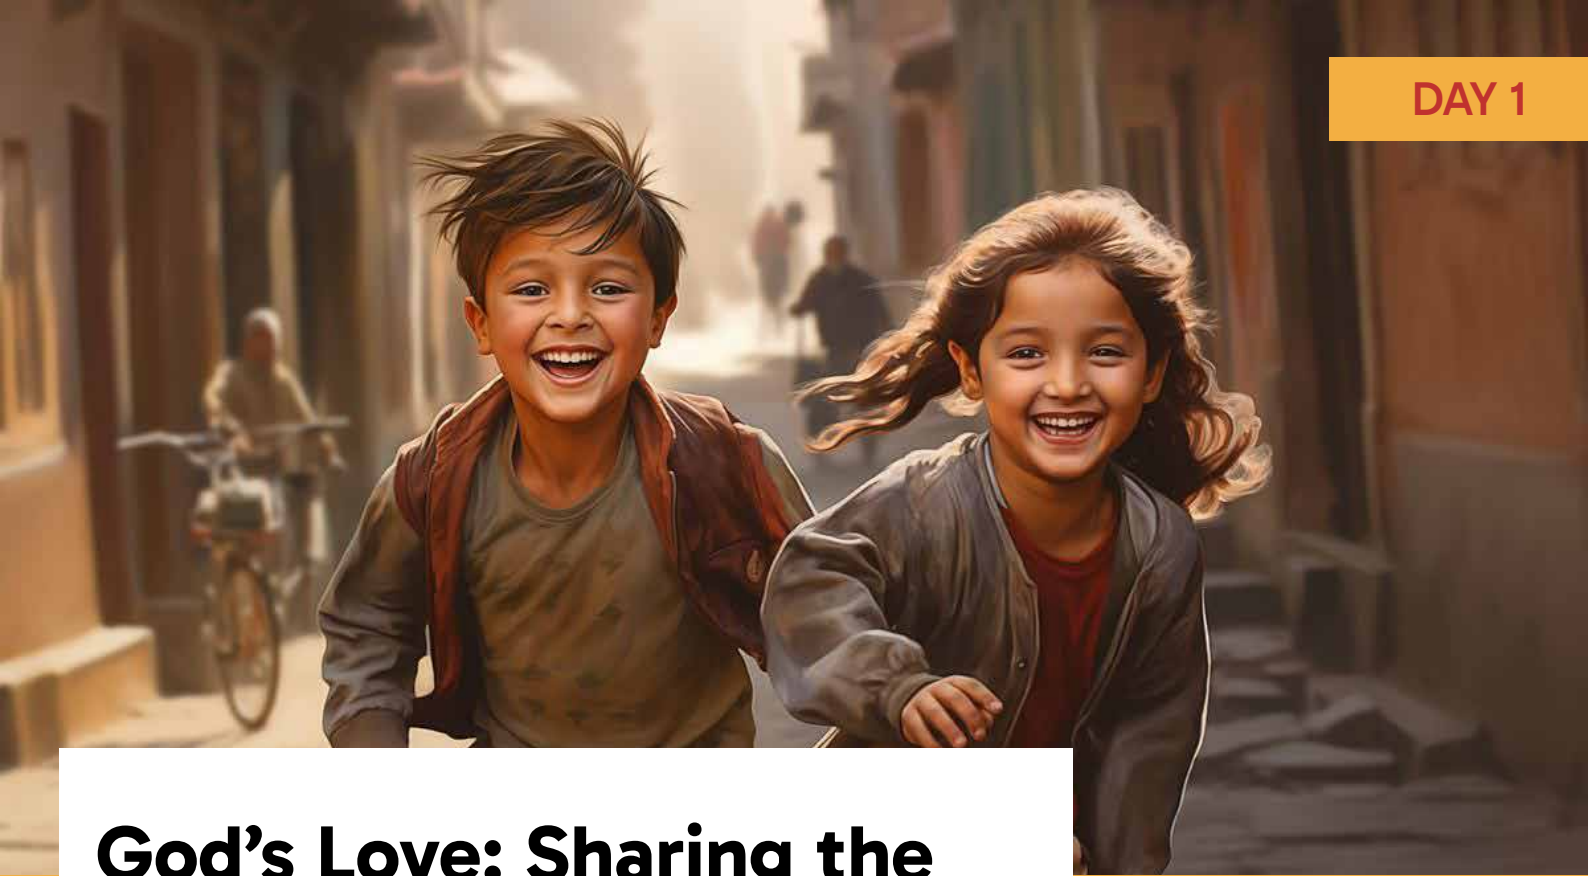

Diwali

THE FESTIVAL OF LIGHTS AND JOY

Diwali, also known as Deepavali, is one of the most celebrated festivals in Hindu culture. It symbolizes the triumph of light over darkness and good over evil. This joyous occasion brings together families, communities, and regions to honor ancient traditions, spread happiness, and create a vibrant atmosphere of spiritual renewal.

For Hindus, Diwali carries profound spiritual and cultural significance. It represents the victory of Lord Rama, the seventh avatar of Lord Vishnu, over the demon king Ravana and the return of Lord Rama to Ayodhya after a 14-year exile. The lighting of oil lamps called diyas and bursting fireworks are symbolic gestures that ward off evil and invite prosperity, happiness, and good fortune. Diwali also holds significance in other religious contexts, such as celebrating the goddess Lakshmi, the Hindu deity of wealth and prosperity.

Diwali is a time of spiritual reflection, renewal, and joy for Hindu communities. It encapsulates the values of triumph over darkness, good over evil, and the importance of familial and community bonds. This celebration of light and happiness brings people closer, inspiring them to spread love, peace, and prosperity throughout the year.

Parents reached whose boy was healed through prayer!

“One of our leaders is a young girl working for a wealthy man who owns much property.

She shared these stories of the Lord’s work: ‘My top boss’s son was very sick and had not eaten for quite a while. So his parents took him to the doctor. While they were there, I happened to meet them, and I offered to pray for the son. After I prayed, he was immediately healed and began to eat and drink, which made an impression on the parents.’”

‘Within a couple of days, the boss called me and said, “My wife wants to spend some time with you because when she talked with you, she felt peace. So we’re sending a car to pick you up and bring you to my house.” So I went because I wanted to make disciples, and the wife wanted to know: “What exactly is this all about?” This gave me an opportunity to share the good news.’”

Caste does not matter in the Kingdom of God!

“In one village, we met a low-caste woman who started a church in her home and then also started churches among the high-caste people nearby.

Other Indians visiting with us were shocked she could do that. We learned that after she had prayed for healing for some high-caste people and God had healed them, they didn’t care what caste she came from.

Sharing God's love with India's Railway Children...

“We visited a project helping railway children, which the movement has started in many Indian cities. Tens of thousands of abandoned children live at railway stations across the country. They usually sleep only 2-3 hours a day due to fear of robbery, rape, and beatings.”

“The Bhojpuri movement has started homes for these children. When they first arrive, most children are so exhausted that they spend the first week doing nothing except eating and sleeping. Rescue workers help the children learn to trust and recover from trauma - and reunite them with their families. They also help their families get healthy enough to care for the children, or they find them foster homes with families they know.”

“There is a constant stream of children coming through this service. In two children's homes, we listened with lumps in our throats as the children sang about God's love in local languages.”

Paralyzed man's healing led to breakthrough!

“While I was studying at university, I became friends with two sons from the Potter tribe. They followed a type of the Sikh religion -

“They were very staunch followers of their religion and didn't want to listen to what I said about the good news.

Then their father suddenly fell ill and became paralyzed. My friend and I prayed for him continuously for a week, and he was completely healed.”

“After the healing, the father said, ‘Every Monday, we will meet here and pray.’ The prayer group turned into a worshipping community among that tribe. As the message spread and people got trained, they started more worshipping communities. They now have 20 fellowships among that group.”

Jesus healed my wife; we now follow Him

“I come from a high-caste family.

“One night, my wife suddenly woke up screaming, ‘Please save me; someone is trying to cut me and burn me.’ Soon the whole village came to our home.”

“We called the shamans but nothing stopped the pain. The priest could do nothing. The doctor said my wife had no physical problem.”

“We called a Christian pastor from a neighboring village.

“He prayed, and when he said ‘Amen,’ she immediately calmed down. All the villagers, shamans, and priest saw this.

That day I decided to follow Jesus. My wife and I now work together to bring peace to other families.”
